

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is unethical and dangerous.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy. This is propaganda and should not be happening in 2004 in America

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. TV stations should always take a neutral stance and provide the public with a fair and unbiased representation of any event, election or otherwise.

I was born in England and recently became an American citizen. I believe in this country but am disappointed. Please protect us from this crooked operation and have more respect for the American public who, when presented with opinions from both sides, are perfectly capable of making our own decisions. Please stop Sinclair and let them know you are watching them, and so are we.
